

Two Champions Named At U. S. Spelling Bee

By FRANK TAYLOR

WASHINGTON—Sandra Owen of Navarre, Ohio, a girl who would not give up, today shared the national spelling championship with Dana Bennett of Denver, Colo., a girl who "loves" words.

Sandra, 14, and Dana, 13, were declared co-winners after they out-spelled 65 other finalists yesterday in the 30th annual national spelling bee.

This was the second time the bee has ended in a tie. The last time was in 1950.

Each was awarded a first prize of $1,000 cash, a trophy cup, and a $100 bonus for a weekend visit to New York.

Newspaper sponsors said five million youngsters competed in the gigantic spell-down across the nation this year.

The two teenage spelling wizards stuck through 37 rounds and a list of selected words before the draw was declared by director Richard D. Peters.

For Sandra, it was something of a comeback. She was runner-up in the national contest last year. This was Dana's first national spelling bee and she said "words are my hobby and I love it."

The two showed the effects of the strain after some nine hours, but each was missing only when the other missed. Under the rules, a finalist must spell a missed word and then spell one more word to clinch the title.

Two Children Play Hookey, Both Drown

BALTIMORE—Wilbur John Bohle Jr., 7, lived in South Baltimore and didn't know Charles R. Bosley Jr., 12, who lived in Reisterstown, just north of the city.

But Wilbur played hookey from school yesterday to romp outside historic Fort McHenry, police were told, and Charles played hookey from school to go swimming.

Wilbur fell from a seawall into the Patapsco River and drowned. Charles sank below the surface while swimming in the Liberty Reservoir and drowned.

point a government-paid lawyer to defend him, since he would then have no member of the bar to act in his behalf.

Would Be Observers
He said the American lawyers now advising Girard would be permitted in a Japanese trial only as observers.

In Maebashi, Akikichi Sakai, husband of the dead woman, told reporters "the Americans who insist on American trial of my wife's killer do so because they regard Japanese people as sub-human and no more than dogs."

"I am sick and tired of reading many one-sided opinions voiced by misinformed Americans," Sakai said.

"Or maybe," he added, "these Americans recall their own kangaroo courts that tried and convicted many Japanese war criminals after World War II and may now fear retaliation by the Japanese."

Congressman Seeks Action Reconsidered

WASHINGTON—Rep. Haley (D-Fla.) has introduced a resolution urging the administration to reconsider its decision to allow Army Specialist 3.C. William S. Girard to be tried by Japanese authorities.

The resolution, if adopted, would not be binding. It would represent only an expression of House sentiment in the case of the 21-year-old Orlawa, Ill., soldier accused in the death of a Japanese woman. The case has aroused considerable controversy in Congress and elsewhere.

Meanwhile, townspeople in Orlawa were raising a fund in the GI's behalf, and a citizens' committee arranged to fly here Monday to protest formally the government decision to allow the soldier to be tried by the Japanese rather than before a U. S. military court.

Mother Kills Three Babies

DETROIT—Three small children were found dead today shortly after their distraught mother telephoned police that she had killed them.

Officers found Mrs. Constance Wheelton, 29, collapsed and hysterical.

Inside the gas-filled house were the bodies of Jimmy, 4, and Deborah, 1½, in a bathtub partially filled with water. The other child, 6-month-old Diane, lay in her crib.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee counsel, asked Mrs. Lower whether she once had told the Los Angeles police that "Cross came to your room and beat you up" in the presence of Nelson. Kennedy asked whether this was because she had used union funds to buy a diamond ring to give to Cross, but gave the ring to a man named Joe Erringer.

Refuses To Answer
Mrs. Lower refused to reply on grounds her answers might "incriminate me."

Kennedy ticked off a string of union meetings and conventions he said she had attended at union expense, and asked what she did at these meetings. Again she refused to answer.

Under persistent questioning, Nelson testified that perhaps $900 to $1,100 of $1,500 recorded in the local's books as going for "organization" purposes was paid to TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP)—A pregnant teen-age wife, given a choice of returning to her parents or her husband, chose her 45-year-old spouse, an Alabama Ku Klux Klan leader.

Barbara Richardson Horn made her choice soon after she was released yesterday from jail, where juvenile court had held her for six days as a minor out of her parents' control.

Barbara was released from jail soon after it was found out that she was going to have a baby.

She talked with her parents for a few minutes, then went off with Alvin Horn, her husband since May 3. Horn is the father of six children by a wife who died several years ago. He lives near this northeast Alabama town.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Richardson, said in a petition seeking to annul the marriage that Horn gave Barbara's age as 20 years when they were married at Trenton, Ga. Barbara is 15.

Huel Love, the parents' attorney, said the Richardsons were determined to press charges that Horn swore falsely when he obtained a marriage license.

Barbara left home May 27 and was arrested in Tuscaloosa a week ago.

Juvenile Judge H. O. Hurst said yesterday that Barbara could not be kept in jail.

"Whether anyone approves it or not," said Hurst, "she is married to Alvin Horn."

Mrs. Lower. He said this was in payment for her work at digging up names of about 50 possible recruits for union membership at the Van De Kamp bakery in Los Angeles.

Last Baltimore To Hagerstown Train Operated By W.M. Minus Ceremony

BALTIMORE (AP)—It's all over for the 520 and a century of passenger train service between Baltimore and Hagerstown.

The Western Maryland Railway's No. 1 rumbled out of Baltimore's Hillen Street Station at 5:20 p. m. as usual. Carrying 157 revenue passengers, the train arrived at Hagerstown 20 minutes late.

And the curtain came down on another chapter in railroad history.

There was no ceremony, no epiphany to this casualty of progress.

Yesterday was the final day of Western Maryland Railway passenger service on the Baltimore to Hagerstown run.

The railroad halted the service, lately consisting of two trains daily, because of the steady decline of passengers in recent years.

Passenger service between Cumberland and Elkins, W. Va., will continue.

The last passenger ticket on No. 1 went to Howard M. Elter, 52, of Shippensburg, Pa., who like many of the other passengers made the 85-mile journey out of sentimental interest.

Four of the passengers were members of the Baltimore Chapter, National Railway Historical Society. Two others belonged to the Washington chapter.

Passenger service on the Baltimore to Hagerstown run goes back almost to 1852 when the railroad was founded. In those days it was called the Baltimore, Carroll and Frederick Railroad.

During its prime, the railroad carried a heavy load of passengers to vacation spots in Western Maryland. One such resort is Pen-Mar, overlooking the Cumberland Valley. Pen-Mar was created
